General Perception of Educated Person toward Islamic Banking and Finance in City of Delhi and Meerut

Abbul Hasan Khan¹

¹Associates professor (School of Management and Business studies Monad University)

Abstract: India is land of opportunities and wonder that is why everybody sees as favorite destination of investment. If we talk about seventeen century India and China bag 50% export and 60% accumulated wealth of the world. This is not only dimension about which people talk but India remains the center for different faiths, caste creed religions and importantly India remain fertile land to floureous everything with rapid growth. Today we talk about my study about Islamic Banking in most prominent part of India and found very important insight about most modern concept of Ethical banking which is popularly known as Islamic banking. And try to know the ground realty and popular views about the subject and reason for bright future. Sample size of my study is 250 person of different back ground including students and ask the response by open-ended questionnaire as we know available information about Islamic banking has unfortunately been misunderstood in India as a religious charitable venture restricted to the country's poverty-ridden and economically downtrodden Muslim community. Even years of successful Islamic banking operations and its phenomenal growth around the world have failed to demolish this myth. RBI and the Ministry of Finance should examine Islamic Banking as a viable alternative to tackle the macro economic problems. Recently when most prestigious institute of India popularly known as chartered accountant of India make one of its elective as Islamic banking and finance. The concept became more valuable. After this announcement (CAII) the perception of educated people change very much and I found 70% youngster want to know about the concept in Delhi and 50% in Meerut and elderly person have mix views. And very few think this is not good for our economy since we are having well organize banking sector so why we go for uncontested venture .and very less are neutral and having no views

I. INTRODUCTION

This is era of financial inclusion and digital financing but in core of these concepts one thing is very common that everyone pay certain amount of cost in the form of commission or interest .But there is one unique concept in the financial world that comes as no surprise that Islamic Banking is booming. The concept of interest is fundamental to the business of banking. With this background it is very interesting that sharia banking is working without profits and is still flourishing. They are not only profitable but are also growing at an astonishing rate in sense of capital, assets and consumers. From Jakarta to Jeddah t Jordan, 280 Islamic banks operate in over 50 countries, with assets estimated between $ 250 million and $ 300 billion.

II. ISLAMIC BANKING – AN OVERVIEW

Islamic Banking refers to a method of banking that is based on Islamic Law (Shariah) which prohibits ‘interest based banking’ and permits only ‘profit sharing based banking’. The concept is based on a verse of the Holy Quran that says —Allah has allowed only legitimate trade and prohibits interest’. It is against the interest, as interest is believed to lead to exploitation and unproductive income. Islamic banking has the same purpose as conventional banking except that it operates in accordance with the rules of the Shariah, known as Fiqh al-Muamalat (Islamic rules on transactions). So, today, by Islamic Banking one does not mean a mere lending institution extending interest-free loans, but a package of Shariah-compliant (strict adherence to Islamic economic norms) financial services like Islamic mutual funds, Islamic bonds (sukuk), Islamic insurance (takaful), Islamic credit cards and other technology-driven services like ATMs and online banking, all of which have a tremendous market in India. Incidentally, the Dow Jones Islamic Index has, after suitable vetting, declared 60-70 percent of Indian companies on the BSE and NSE as Shariah compliant for equity investment. In India there are reportedly 200 small Islamic banking institutions in Kerala alone. The deposits of each of these banks range from Rs. one lakh to Rs. ten lakhs and they do not restrict their lending to Muslims alone. In many Western countries mainstream banks are now opening special no-interest divisions to cater to Muslim clients who refuse to either pay or earn interest. But this is clearly the response to a niche-market of clients with special needs. There is still a long way to go before the idea of interest-free money is taken seriously by conventional bankers and policy maker.

III. RBI AND ISLAMIC BANKIN

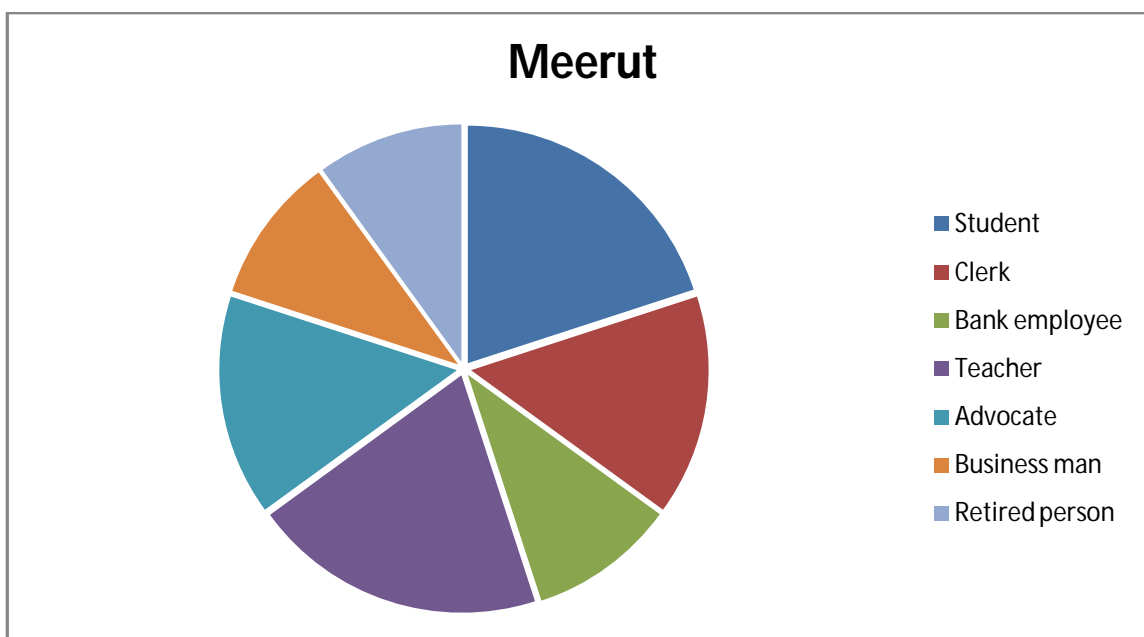

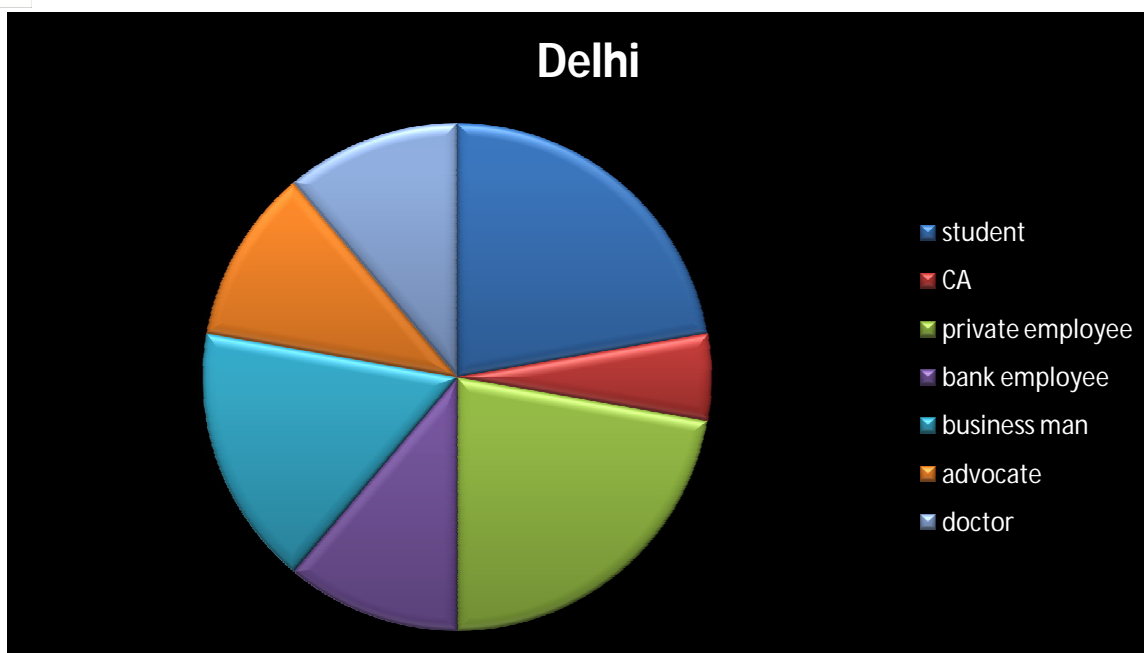

- A. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has proposed opening of “Islamic window” in conventional banks for “gradual” introduction of Sharia-compliant or interest-free banking in the country. Both the Centre and RBI are exploring the possibility of introduction of Islamic banking for long to ensure financial inclusion of those sections of the society that remain excluded due to religious reasons.
 - B. “In our considered opinion, given the complexities of Islamic finance and various regulatory and supervisory challenges involved in the matter and also due to the fact that Indian banks have no experience in this field, Islamic banking may be introduced in India in a gradual manner.
 - C. “Initially, a few simple products which are similar to conventional banking products may be considered for introduction through Islamic window of the conventional banks after necessary notification by the government.
 - D. “Introduction of full-fledged Islamic banking with profit-loss sharing complex products may be considered at a later stage on the basis of experience gained in course of time,” the RBI has told

IV. CONCLUSIONS

This is in the best interest of India to permit Islamic banks to operate and expand their network in the country along with traditional banks as their main focus is on social well being and wealth generation activities in the society. It is hoped that their participation in Indian banking will lead to further infrastructural customer base development in India. This is one of good point in my studies that student and professional want to know about this concept that mean in India larger population is below 35 year of age so concept of Islamic banking has very promising future a head.
