XI. CONCLUSION

After thorough analysis and study of data collection in Chandrapur city the result came to know that Colgate, Pepsodent, Close Up, Dabur Red and Sensodyne are the brands of toothpaste which are largely preferred by the consumer. The value of attributes in the toothpaste they want they get in their favorite brand.

From the analysis it was found that customers who prefer Colgate, Close Up, Pepsodent and Dabur Red toothpaste are highly satisfied with the brand preference.

The reason behind consumer preference of specific brand of toothpaste is foam, ingredient, flavor, availability and freshness and other minor reasons.

From above study it was came to know factors which affect consumers in their buying decision are brand image and quality for preferred brands.

Majority of consumers get the information about brands and products from electronic, social, print and through outdoor advertisement.

XII. SUGGESTIONS

The discoveries in view of the information gathered give a genuinely smart thought about the different perspectives o some Significant famous brands such as pepsodent, dabur red, babool, colgate, close up, vicco vajradanti, patanjali dantkanti etc people are regularly using these brands and they are familiar with this brands but they have their own choices and likes in this matter.

In the wake of thinking about this large number of realities of the market and the working of the market, it has been suggested that in toothpaste Industry there is a vicious contest is happening between key part.

So for the new passage it is hard to catch the portion of the overall industry yet for the current organization the separation won't turns into that much challenging to catch the market. In this way, toothpaste Industry is an industry where all players needs to focus on client's changing interest and inclinations to get by on the lookout and to catch the piece of the pie.

Colgate must launch a toothpaste which is specially for gum related problems in the Indian market there no such toothpaste is available only sensodyne brand is in the market colgate must pick this opportunity colgate is having highest brand loyal customers in the market. Colgate is best in every angle but gum related issue colgate don't have any product in this segment.

Quality, natural and herbal ingredients and taste of the item ought to be kept best consistently to hold the inclinations of the buyer.
