I. ECONOMICS OF INTERNATIONAL TOURISM IN INDIA- AN ANALYSIS ON FTA'S

Tourism as an industry growing rapidly many nations especially developing countries having huge profit share from this dynamic industry. It is a significant instrument for the economic development and employment generation of the nation. It is the world's largest industry in terms of revenue as well as foreign Exchange earnings. Tourism can play an important and effective role in achieving the growth with equity objectives which India has set for itself Tourism is one economic sector in India that has the prospectus to grow at higher rate and can make sure consequential development of the infrastructure of the destinations. India from past few decades has gained great exponential growth in the tourism sector. Nowadays India is the most preferred tourist destinations for the foreign as well as domestic travellers. India's tourism sector is experienced rapid growth rate which is driven by high spending by foreign tourists.

Tourism industry in India is significant and vibrant is at superior of becoming major global destination. Tourism can play an important and effective role in achieving the growth with equity objectives which India has set for itself.

Tourism is one economic sector in India that has the potential to grow at a high rate and can make sure consequential development of the infrastructure of the destinations. It has the capacity to capitalize on the country's success in the services sector and provide sustainable models of growth.

Tourism has been identified as the major export industry in the world (Gosh Viswanath, 1998). The multifaceted nature of this industry makes it a catalyst to economic development and helps balanced regional development. It is a low capital, labour intensive industry with economic multiplier and offers and opportunity to earn foreign exchange at low social cost. Globalization of development programmes has raised the foreign exchange requirements of developed as well as the developing countries.

A number of manufacturing and non-manufacturing, traditional and non-traditional industries, no doubt, have helped them in their stupendous task of industrial transformation but at the same time, the harmful side effects have resulted in atmospheric pollution. In addition, the inadequacy of financial resources has also been an important barrier in speeding up the process of economic transformation.

The magnitude of competition is found at peak, which necessitates world-Class excellence for excelling competition. Amidst all these constraints, the development of tourism industry appears to be an important solution. Tourism, both international and domestic, brings about an intermingling of people from diverse social and cultural backgrounds, and also a considerable spatial redistribution of spending power, which has significant impact on the economy of the destination area.

II. LITERATURE REVIEW

An extensive literature relating to the concept of economic significance of tourism industry in Asia and related subject has been collected and reviewed to understand the broader areas of previous research works and also to know the existing research gap. Fateme Tohid Ardahaey in his work Economic Impacts of Tourism Industry defines short-term and long-term strategic planning and using the specific abilities and tourism products of developing countries, which suffer from some indices as unemployment, limits in earning and currency flows, inflation and other problems, most of their economic problems can be solved.

Mahalakshmi Venkatesh and Dr. P. Stanley Joseph Michal Raj explain about the tourism Contributors to economic growth, Role of Tourism industry in India's GDP, Foreign versus Domestic Tourists. Tourism is one of the fastest growing service industries in the country with great potentials for its further expansion and diversification. Tourism industry plays a major role in any country's economic development.

Daniel J. Stynes in his article economic impact of tourism describes about the economic impact of the tourism and analysis of the economic impact and direct, indirect and induced effect of tourism, he also states regional economic model and multiplier effect of tourism.

WTTC 2015 report on Travel & Tourism Economic impact 2015 Asia pacific describes about statistic of contribution of travel & tourism towards GDP, support to the employment, visitor exports, and investments in the financial year 2015.

A. Statement of Problem

India's diverse heritage includes not just breathtakingly beautiful architecture, rich traditions and rich cultures but also mesmerizing and scenic landscapes. From the challenging snow-clad peaks of the Himalayas and the cool hill stations of the north, to the alluring beaches on the western and eastern coasts and the ornate temples of the south, India has the variety to satiate the interests of all those travelling through the country. Tourism in India has grown in leaps and bounds over the years, with each region of India contributing something to its splendour and exuberance. It is a treasure house of cultural and traditional embellishes as reflected in its artefacts, scenic beauties of the rivers, sea and mountains, thus enabling it to gain a prestige in the international arena. Tourism industry contributes 4809 billion rupees to the GDP directly with an average of 3.3% total GDP in 2016 and is forecast to increase by 6.9% in 2017-2027, to 9948 billion rupees with 3.5% of total GDP in 2027. The following researchable issues are identified after a thorough literature review.

India has received largely foreign currency earning through FTA's. Foreign tourists spent a huge sum of money during their visitation. The FEE data is accumulated by government of India, Ministry of Tourism, during last few decades, shows an interesting data of earnings from FTA's in India. As per the data, the FEE has growing at a rapid phase, which takes lion share in economic development of tourism and hospitality sector. In the year 2016, US$ 22923 million at an 8.8% Change over rate than previous year (2015). It is a tremendous growth as compared to other sectors in India. The major factor is the earnings are largely from foreign exchange, which plays a crucial role in the development of tourism sector in India.

Provisional estimates (based on Provisional FTAs), @: Growth Rate over Jan- Jun, 2016
 Revised estimates (based on final FTAs received from BOI).

The income from the FTA’s has increasing in past few years, from 14.0% in the year 2015-16 to 19.7 in the year 2017-17 (Jan-Jul), in which 135193 crore in 2015 to 154146 crore in 2016 in Indian rupees in just twenty four months. Overall income from FTA’s stands at 289339 crore between 2015 and 2016. The highest FEE was recorded in the month of April 2017 which is 27.8% as compared to April 2017. June 2017 also seen a growth of 22.6% in FTA’s in India. In March 2017, the growth of FEE was very low at 15.4% only due to several reasons. Government and ministry of tourism pushing hardly to rise the income from foreign visitation in past few years by introducing several new strategies like “Incredible India” Campaign. The above data reveals that income from FTA’s is increasing at a steady pace, but still the full potential of India’s tourism industry is yet to be understood.

V. CONCLUSION

While tourism is no universal elixir, the development of tourism can play a much more significant role in the future than it does at present. The potential and performance of Indian tourism industry needs an indicator in terms of its economic magnitudes. It also consider the effects of tourism economic growth in India, major players to the economic growth, Role of Indian tourism industry in GDP, contribution of Indian tourism industry in foreign exchange, FDI and employment generation. The study based on the foreign tourist’s visitation in number and total income earned from the visitation in 2000 - 2016. In the year 2016, US$ 22923 million at an 8.8% Change over rate than previous year (2015). It is a tremendous growth as compared to other sectors in India. The major factor is the earnings are largely from foreign exchange, which plays a crucial role in the development of tourism sector in India. This data itself gives clear idea about the growth rate even high in the future days, along with the income earned from each trip as well.
